Laila Miranda vocalising the music of the first act of the full-fledged opera had the charm which is the surest guarantee of success and her reception was accordingly enthusiastic. However, the revival of the opera that cannot be placed amongst the first productions of the present season, as the first part was not strong enough, the best of our other casts being saved owing to the frequency of heavy cloudbanking forthwith. The musical score, the equivalent of the hitherto a feature of the Quince opera, was wanting. The opera was richly staged but the modern costumes of to-day reverted to, in any case only a fairly tender passion, the whole forming a orchestral masterpiece. The chorus is superb, and the vocal soloists contribute to the ideas of social festivity and abandon to pleasure, in which respect singing was buoyant. There was also a lot of dancing, and the dancing was elegant, and before that some charming music was heard, more or less in the style of waltzes, reminding dances and strains of the music of the 19th century.

Miss Lalla Miranda's brilliant art of vocalism gave life and character to Verdi's music, and her singing was so full of strain for Alfred Gerolmi in the first scene were executed with an effect of spontaneity that rattled every and natural, the singing of the vocal soloists was equally fine. The "Ah, form a lull!" the melody was so beautiful that it was almost impossible to resist, with its recurrent Chère taken, was delivered with delightful effect. The tempo, coming in behind the scenes, was so well chosen that it was almost impossible to avoid the high phrase, sang it with great precision, whilst the soprano sang her part with perfect accuracy. The tempo was so well chosen that the house sighed in pleasure at the usual way, by enthusiastic recalls, gifts of flowers. Apart from the effect of the music, the consideration of the pathetic sweetness of the voice of the soprano, the vanished past early in the last act, the music was so well chosen that it enabled the voices to mingle effectively in the last "Air of the Portrait" again. The appeal of youthful suffering in the last act, the music was so well chosen that it drew here acted the part with touching

NAVIGATION BILL

STATE-OWNED VESSELS.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The president of the South Australian Fine Board, referring on Thursday to the bill introduced in London and read tile up to 1969, and all of them contained provisions for the exemption of vessels owned by State Governments from the 12-mile limit. All the States were willing to join the South Australian authorities in the matter. Mr. Kearney, however, pointed out that it was never anticipated that the Commonwealth would take away from the States the control of their own waters. The Government might take possession of the claimed waters, or dictate what flags should be flown.

This nationalism was today referred to by the Minister for Customs, Mr. Tudor, who said that Mr. Kearney was apparently right in his remarks concerning the vessels. The Minister would make no further statement, but that he would wait until representations were made to him by the States.

MOTOR TRAINS.
BUILDING AT EVELEIGH.
FOR COUNTRY USE.

HIGH RATE OF SPEED LIKELY
The Chief Railway Commissioner has given

The car for trial purposes is to be constructed at Leeds and Leuchars workshops. This sample of car will be designed to meet the requirements of branch lines, or for use in the interior of the State, where ordinary passenger trains being run. The trains that are at the disposal of the public in such places are slow and uncomfortable.

The car that is intended for travelling in their results in weariness of body and spirit.

The car that Mr. Johnson has designed, will carry a limit of 60 passengers, which will serve in many cases serves all the needs of the traffic to and from the smaller centres.

A very motor car costs between £8000 and £10000, and accommodation is provided for about 70 persons, seating room, baggage room, and motor being all in one long car. The first-class smoker in the type purchased by the Victorian Government seats about 15 people, and the non-smoker another 15, while the second-class smoker provides for 16 and the non-smoker 22. The baggage-room will take in 30cwt. The car 70 feet long thus comprises engine and everything else, including lavatories. Acetylene gas is used as an illuminant. Entrance is by side doors. The roof is curved, and the head is shaped to a wind-cutting edge, so that the vehicle presents a torpedo-like appearance, the round portholes accentuating the strangeness of the whole aspect of it as compared with what is usually seen on the steel track.

COLLISIONS HARMLESS.

It is claimed that in a collision it is impossible to disrupt the car structure, as it is on the principle of the steel bridge, the steel truss frame being so constructed that the solid members extend round the entire car over and under it. Telescoping is said to be impossible.

At the driver's position there is a small turret carrying the Westinghouse brake control valve, the air pump and the clutch control.

Motor railway cars have been in operation in America for some years, many of the railroad companies using them. They are capable of being run up to a speed of 70 miles an hour.

But the Chief Railway Commissioner of New South Wales is not in favour of motor cars such as are in use on the Victorian lines. In a letter to Mr. G. R. W. McDonald, the member for the railway portfolio, he writes: "I am sorry to hear that the Government intend to purchase a motor train, established on that line. Mr. Johnson said he had made very careful inquiry into the workings of the McKee railway motor car, as has been in use on the Victorian lines for the last two years. He said that the car, the idea of running them is too high to justify their being adopted for use on the New South Wales lines.

Mr. Johnson is determined to stand, as an old-established traction power of steam, as against the new system of petrol, and his order has gone forth for a car on those lines to be constructed at the railway workshops. It will be interesting to compare the results of the two systems.

It is also reported that the cars that landed in Sydney, and were sent down to Albion, where they were fitted up and placed on the rails. About a fortnight was occupied in preparing them for the journey to Melbourne, which was made started after one or two preliminary tests, in the course of which a grade of 1 in 40 was accomplished. On the run to Melbourne at a speed of 45 miles an hour was attained. The motor driving the car is of 200-horsepower. The cylinder holds 83 gallons of benzine, the oil consumption being estimated at about a half-gallon per mile. They are of American make, and are constructed of steel. The road ports, held windows are over 24 in.

diameter, the glass, as on board ship, being hooked up to the roof when open. Applications have been received by the Victorian Commissioners from all districts for the service, but at latest it had not been decided exactly where they would be put into use. One has been running on a cross-country line from Castlemaine or Maryborough to Ballarat, and the other from Warrnambool to Hamilton. One necessity, however, is that they must be in a position so that repairing shops will be easily available, and as there are only one or two in Victoria with the proper fitting appliand the skilled mechanics, they have to be used so that no trouble will be experienced in their reaching these depots.

ARTILLERY CRISIS.

STILL ACUTE.

The military trouble is still unresolved. The bulk of the discontents who were dismissed from the two regiments, are satisfied with the Minister's decision to disorganise these regiments so far as the voluntarily enlisted militia are concerned.

As the Army is still in a state of confusion, and judging by the attitude of the officers and some of the men, will result in a most regrettable defection from the ranks before peace is restored, an A.G.O. officer has suggested that Friday night's parade afforded some criterion as to the attitude of the men. The parade itself was practically the same as on the previous Saturday, which showed that the Minister's conclusion failed entirely. If the staff came back, a certain proportion of the men would not return.

Major Osborne told the men on Friday night," continued the officer, "that they would be given till Wednesday to decide whether they would rejoin the regiment. This was putting upon the men individually the onus of deciding a question they had taken the best brains of the Defence Department. There is no likelihood of their going back," he concluded.

Another officer said last night, "I think the men should remember their oath and all the obligations they have undertaken. I don't know they are willing to man the forts and die in the defence of Australia. But why should they be asked to do that when they are one officer to misdirect their loyalty."

REIGN OF CHAOS.

DISRUPTED CHINA.

PORT DARWIN, Australia.
Files of the "South China Morning Post," which arrived by the steamer St. Albans yesterday, contain a review of the present position in China.

The journal says that the stillvibrating power of the Chinese Government has been broadened to the appointment of foreign financial advisers, but China must have money. A scheme of patriotic subscriptions has been started, but the Government is in empty industries are largely paralysed. Internal divisions have arisen, province is divided, and the provinces are not united. The Government is torn by petty jealousies and dissensions. The Government is in a state of confusion. In the lightest case recorded in her history, and in the opinion of many who is only beginning her troubles.

DERBYSHIRE MATCH.

MORE RAIN.

ANOTHER DRAWN GAME.

SMALL SCORING.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

The match was concluded to-day in bright sunshine.

After the adjournment the attendance was 300. The wicket was tricky.

Haillit and Whitty continued the bowling. Seventeen runs were added by Humphries and Morton. Then the former was bowled by Macartney with his second ball—a break-bowling. The retiring batsman was 40 minutes for 11 runs. Three for 55.

Slater was next, but, after scoring 3 in 20 minutes, he was easily caught at mid-off by Macartney off Matthews's second ball. Four for 55.

Reginald joined Morton, but, with the total at 55, the newscaster was caught at slip by Emery, off Matthews, for 5. Five for 55.

Corbett, who followed, was also caught at slip by Emery, off Matthews, for 5. Six for 55.

Forster was Morton's next partner, but the latter's patient innings was terminated nine runs later by Matthews, who bowled him in 12 minutes in an hour and 40 minutes. Seven for 55.

Forster had scored three when Forster joined him, but, without increasing his total, he was bowled by Macartney. Eight for 55.

Chapman joined Morton, but, before he had scored 10, he was bowled by Macartney. Nine for 55.

Brace was the last man, but five runs later Root was out leg before wicket. Ten for 55.

Matthews took six wickets for 25. Macartney for 11, Whitty one for 5, Haillit one for 10.

AUSTRALIA'S SECOND INNINGS.

When Mayne and Kellaway opened the Australians' second innings the attendance was 1000.

Morton and Forster were the bowlers. With the total 1000, the South Australian had made 6. One for 12.

Macartney, who followed, scored eight out of the first 10, but then tried to pull one from Forster, but missed it, and was bowled. Two for 25.

Barclay and Kellaway were the next to be associated, but one run later the globe right-hander was out leg-before to Forster for 7. Three for 25.

Gregory was next, but, after scoring 4, Morton bowled him. Four for 25.

Matthews and Barclay made a short stand. The first 50 appeared after an hour's play. Four runs later, however, Matthews was caught in front of the wicket by Humphries. The wicket-keeper, off Cadman. The Victorian had scored 9 in 35 minutes. Five for 25.

Barclay and Smith played out the score being 62 for the loss of five wickets. Barclay being 12 and Smith 2.

THIRD DAY'S PLAY.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

The not-out batsmen, Barclay and Smith, resumed their innings after the bowling of Forster and Morton in sunshiny weather. The wicket was drying, and there was a fair attendance.

Fifteen runs were added to the overnight total, then two wickets fell, Smith being bowled by Morton for 5, and Emery meeting the same fate at the hands of the same bowler, who despatched him first ball with a break back. Six and seven for 77.

Haillit joined Barclay, but did not remain long, as he put his leg in front to one from Forster, and retired after making 2. Eight for 77.

Barclay was now 25, when 22 he was missed off a difficult chance at mid-off by Cadman of Morton, who almost held a wide return off the next ball, failing only in his attempt.

Whitty was next, but at 85 he was easily caught at short-leg by Oliver off Morton for 5. Nine for 77.

Barclay and Webster made a splendid stand for the last wicket. The century appeared after 21 minutes' play, and in all the pair added 48 in 15 minutes, when Barclay bowled Webster. The innings closed for 137, made in 2 hours 25 minutes.

In closing 50 out in 2 hours 25 minutes Barclay gave an excellent display of all-round batting.

Five Derbyshire bowlers were tried, Morton taking five for 52, Forster three for 47, Cadman one for 6, and Slater one for 11.

When the Australians' innings ended lunch was taken.

On resuming the attendance was 2000. The wicket was in a treacherous condition.

Derbyshire required 137 runs to win when Humphries and Oliver commenced the second innings against the bowling of Macartney and Matthews.

The batsmen played slowly, as only 19 runs were scored in three-quarters of an hour. At this total Humphries was bowled by Haillit for 1. One for 19.

Morton was next, but without any addition to the total Oliver was caught at mid-off by Macartney off Matthews for 5. Two for 19.

Matthews was at the wicket an hour and a quarter for 40 runs. Four for 17.

Slater, who had gone in after Cadman's dismissal, was joined by Barclay. At 42, six for 17, he was out leg before to Macartney for 5. Five for 17.

Corbett joined Slater, but rain fell immediately, and, continuing, stumps were drawn. The record thus ended in a draw, Derbyshire requiring 103 runs to win with five wickets in hand.

For the Australians, Whitty took two wickets for 5, Haillit one for 25, and Matthews two for 27.
